High Temperature Corrosion Rapp Robert A

fundamental aspects of high-temperature corrosion - fundamental aspects of high-temperature corrosion (*) robert a. rapp department of materials science and engineering, ohio state university, columbus, oh 432 10, high temperature corrosion and materials chemistry 9 - a ... - v ecs transactions, volume 41, issue 42 high temperature corrosion and materials chemistry 9 - a symposium in honor of professor robert a. rapp rapp and goto(13) proposed that the criterion for ... - hot corrosion robert a. rapp dep't materials sci. & eng. the ohio state university 2041 college road, columbus, oh 43210 hot corrosion is an high-temperature analog of chlorine-induced high temperature corrosion : i. metal ans ... - rapp /96/ thi. i explainness bdy a vapou phasr e transport of reactant whics h play as dominant rol aet high temperature ans d high concentration os f chlorine. the effect of chlorine on the sulphidation is not yet well understood. onl ay few studies have been published on the effect of chlorine on the sulphidation rate bu, t more research is necessary to reveal the effect of the presence of ... the role of chromium in the hot corrosion of metals - called high-temperature hot corrosion (hthc) or type 1 (2). from an engineering standpoint, chromium is known to be the most effective alloying element in combating hot corrosion, even when a protective chromia scale is not formed in-situ hot corrosion testing of candidate materials for ... - high temperatures and stresses as well as molten salt induced corrosion. to investigate to investigate candidate materials for future designs which will involve the hip process, a spindle with ni carburization of austenitic and ferritic alloys in ... - carburization of austenitic and ferritic alloys in hydrocarbon environnents at high tennperature a, serna* and r»a. rapp** abstract the technical and industrial aspects of high temperature corrosion of materials exposed to effect of the navo3-v2o5 ratio on the high temperature ... - high temperature [1-12]. for catastrophic corrosion to occur, it is necessary the dissolution of the protective oxide layer. the solubility of the protective oxides in molten salts sulphate ... introduction to the high-temperature oxidation of metals - the high-temperature corrosion resistance of materials rather than their oxidation resistance. the rate at which the reactions occur is governed by the nature of the reac- hot corrosion in gas turbines - asm international - high temperature corrosion and materials application (#05208g) asminternational mechanism by salt fluxing has been discussed in detail in ref 7, 8, and 9. investigations on the effect of sodium chloride in low ... - one is high temperature hot corrosion or type i hot corrosion, where the salt is clearly a liquid. the other is low temperature hot corrosion i.e., type ii hot corrosion, which occurs below the m.p of na 2 so 4 and where the salt is solid. it is very well established that sodium sulfate alone causes accelerated oxidation of super alloys and coatings at high temperatures where na 2 so 4 is in ... kinetics of high temperature oxidation of high carbon ... - kinetics of high temperature oxidation of high carbon steels in multi-component gases approximating industrial steel reheat furnace atmospheres t k t a w x n = where w and a are the sample weight (g) and surface area (cm 2) respectively, k x is the oxidation rate constant and t is the oxidation time (seconds). the exponential term n represents the type of oxidation mechanism. if (n = 1 ... thermal spray coatings for hot corrosion resistance - abstract hot corrosion arises when metals are excited in the temperature range 700-900 °c in the existence of sulphate deposits, formed as a result of the reaction among sodium chloride and sulphur mixtures in the gas phase adjoining the metals. an overview of na so and/or v o induced hot corrosion of ... - an overview of na 29 2 so 4 and/or v 2 o 5 induced hot corrosion of fe- and ni-based superalloys 2.1. high temperature (type i) hot corrosion (hthc) high temperature (type i) hot corrosion (hthc) is high temperature interaction of nio with sodium sulphate ... - high temperature interaction of nio with sodium sulphate in so 2 environment at 1100 and 1200 k ... reported on the influence of noble metal addition on hot corrosion behaviour of high temperature alloys. goebel et al. [3] examined hot corrosion of ni-based alloys containing cr, al, mo, w and v additions, reviewed and discussed excellently by stringer [4] and rapp et al. [5]. one of the ...
